Durham native Awarded at International Business Conference

Durham, NC - DeWarren Langley, a junior earning a degree in business management with an emphasis in economics and a minor in leadership studies at Hampton University was awarded for academic and professional achievement as well as for his service on the 2005-06 International Board of Directors of the Society for Advancement of Management.

Langley was awarded during the 2006 International Business Conference, "Sustaining a Competitive Edge," in Orlando, Florida held from April 6-9.

The Society for Advancement of Management, the oldest professional management society, is a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization. SAM's mission is to provide an opportunity for the members to increase management skills and expertise through participation in programs and services designed to improve the professional quality of their knowledge, performance and leadership ability.

A native of Durham, NC, Langley was awarded in recognition of his dedicated services and contributions to the art and science of management as a collegiate vice president on the 2005-06 International Board of Directors. He was also awarded the SAM Regional Outstanding Student Award and the SAM National Outstanding Student Award. The Board of Directors selected 15 undergraduate SAM student chapter members to receive honors as National Outstanding Students of SAM. The national awards are designed to recognize the outstanding academic, extracurricular, and professional achievements of SAM students who have demonstrated commitment in management excellence through practice and personal merit.

DeWarren currently serves as the President of the Hampton University collegiate chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management, a post he has held since his freshman year.
